

Paris, 18 January 2018

The Confédération Nationale du Crédit Mutuel will play its full part in guaranteeing prudential coherence and the protection of its customers, members and employees during the examination that ensues as a result of Crédit Mutuel Arkéa's plan to separate from the parent group.

The Confédération Nationale du Crédit Mutuel became aware through the press of the intentions of Crédit Mutuel Arkéa's management to separate from the Crédit Mutuel group. It is now awaiting an official communication of this plan with a view to understand the reasons as well as the practical aspects.

Once the plan is communicated, the Confédération Nationale du Crédit Mutuel will meet with its various bodies to examine in detail the consequences for our customers, members and employees, in accordance with its role as the central body and its mission to guarantee prudential coherence and protect the interests of its customers and members.

The Confédération Nationale du Crédit Mutuel reiterates its commitment to the unity of Crédit Mutuel and to the autonomy of all of the federations, and maintains that this has always been and remains the best solution for all.

Contact: Stéphanie Glémot

+33 (0)1 53 48 87 85 – stephanie.glemot@creditmutuel.fr – 88-90, rue Cardinet – 75847 Paris Cedex 17, France